

Monica Begnaud

ASPIRING SOFTWARE DEVELOPER — WEB APPLICATIONS

monbegna@ttu.edu · (000) 000-0000 · San Antonio, TX · <https://github.com/MonicaBegnaud> ·

SUMMARY

Detail-oriented developer with a background in semiconductor manufacturing and a growing foundation in web development. Experienced in managing complex processes, collaborating across technical teams, and delivering consistent results. Pursuing dual Bachelors of Science in Computing Applications and Human Centered AI, with a focus on building and maintaining internal web applications that improve operational workflows.

SKILLS

CORE

HTML · CSS · GitHub
Visual Studio Code · Notion
· Obsidian

FAMILIAR

JavaScript · Figma

PRODUCTIVITY

Microsoft Suite · Google
Workspace

EDUCATION

B.S. Computing Applications Expected May 2027

Texas Tech University

B.S. Human Centered AI Expected May 2027

Texas Tech University

A.S. Computer Science May 2017

Northwest Vista

EXPERIENCE

Plasma Etch Process Technician — Senior Present

Semiconductor Company Name

- Collaborate with process engineers to support propagation and development testing in a high-precision manufacturing environment
- Maintain daily production flow by coordinating with fab operations and machine maintenance teams
- Apply strong attention to detail and technical problem-solving to ensure process consistency and quality